This book is the last supplement to the internationally acclaimed best-selling Love is in the Earth series. Internationally known, best-selling author of the "Love is in the Earth" series, Melody was born in Cumberland, Maryland, and now resides in the Rocky Mountain region. She is a scientist and holds a Bachelor of Science and Master of Art degrees in mathematics. She has been working with stones since she was a child, always evidencing an interest in the geological and mystical properties of these children of the Mother Earth. Due to the desire to share her research and knowledge with her brothers and sisters of the planet, and due to the need to make the information available at the onset of the "Age of Love", she has updated this popular book. Customer Reviews

Very good quality, this volume has crystals that her original book doesn't include.

Thank You!!

I purchased this book primarily not only for the metaphysical properties, but the pictures and identification. I consider the scanned pictures worthless for use in identification, they are for the most part, flat (no depth of field), dull (poor color rendition), and appear slightly blurry and lifeless. In looking up minerals I had a working knowledge of, either through lapidary, collecting myself, or dealing directly with miners, or mine owners, I found several inconsistencies which lead me to doubt the information of minerals I am looking up and have no knowledge of. The glossy paper the book is printed on, is another negative, through past experience skin oils and field use will decrease its readability greatly over time. Metaphysically, I can make no comments as it is still a subject beyond my ken, but I am learning.

Excellent book with lots of new information on new and old crystals. Very informative.

I expected more insight and information, especially on the vibrational propriety of the stones. The pictures are average but associating the stone to numbers is nice not detailed enough

Excellent book for helping to identify crystals and learning about them.

.very informative and also very prompt!
