SIX SHANGHAI WALKS-The Streets Of Changing Fortune

Synopsis

The book covers 6 must-see destinations in Shanghai--the most fantastic city in China: Suzhou Creek; Behind the Bund; French Concession East; Xujiahui; Yu Yuan Lu; Shanghai is a city which is rich of history and culture.it has never looked back,and has again become one of the major commercial cities of the world.In the process much has been lost,including much of its old Western architecture. In our walks we want to show you what remains,to take you back into an era that has perhaps been over-romanticized but one that,for most foreigners,was the apogee of the "Good life".

Barbara Green hails from Belfast,Ireland.She arrived in Shanghai in 2001 from London where her working life was centered on the old City of London.In 2002,she and Michelle Le Bouille started the Brits Abroad Shanghai Walks and,from 2002 to 2006,Barbara edited the Courier-the magazine of the Shanghai Expatriate Association.

Great book, great series. Gets into a bit of history but not be big technobabble dive into every detail. The pick some of the highlights of the city with enough detail to help you navigate most parts of being in that place. This isn't a copied from wiki guide book, there is real research and knowledge.

This book is a must have for Expats living in Shanghai, or anyone wanting to get to know the city better. The authors provide wonderful details so that the reader/walker can easily find their way, complete with ping ying and characters so that you can direct a taxi driver as to where you'd like to begin your walk. I like having the flexibility to grab the book and pick out a walk on my own time and not have to wait for a guided tour - this book provides tons of details no need for a guide!
