Garret Romaine has been an avid rockhound, fossil hunter, and gold prospector for 35 years. He is a long-time journalist, columnist, and technical writer, and teaches technical writing at Portland State University. He is a Fellow in the Society for Technical Communication. He holds a degree in geology from the University of Oregon and a degree in geography from the University of Washington. Since 1997 he has written a regular magazine column for the Gold Prospectors Association of America entitled "Mining the Internet."Â He is the author of Rockhounding Idaho and Rocks, Gems, and Minerals (both FalconGuides) as well as Gem Trails of Oregon and Gem Trails of Washington. He is also a columnist for Gold Prospectors magazine. He lives in Portland, Oregon.

I really enjoyed the book. As an enthusiastic amateur, it's suggestions were very helpful. I noticed that another reviewer liked it, but thought it was heavy on the "west". That's because the most open areas where people can collect, are in the "West"!

Good book very informative lots of great and useful information. Just a wealth of useful info. Shipping and seller was delivered in great condition and reasonable shipping time.

This guide is for rock hounds and prospectors of all kinds. It has updated information and sources for the novice and experienced. I found it invaluable in my pursuit of finding and polishing rocks of all types.

Good reference material as well as the references available. May be more than some want. As a part to full time prospector this book adds some good information to help in success in the field.

Excellent resource for geology studies! Accessible to beginners, but rich with factual science!

Writes so inexperienced beginners can understand. Actually kind of "fun" to read!!

Very informative book, my son is very interested in this topic and book covers a lot of information

The Modern Rockhounding and Prospecting handbook (Falcon Guides) so far has been fun to read I can't wait to start looking for rocks that has some golden color in them!!!
