This book is written for geriatricians, internists, general practitioners, residents and fellows who treat older patients and unlike other texts on the market addresses the specific issues of wound prevention and management in older individuals. Pressure Ulcers in the Aging Population: A Guide for Clinicians emphasizes prevention, proper documentation and the team care process which are often overlooked in standard texts. Chapters are written by experts in their fields and include such evolving topics as deep tissue injury and the newer support surface technologies.

Customer Reviews

From the reviews: "This book covers the clinical considerations in treating pressure ulcers in older patients. It is aimed at students and clinicians of all types -- nursing and medicine at the student or experienced practitioner levels. This highly practical book outlines the very basics of caring for elderly patients with pressure ulcers." (Vincent F. Carr, Doody's Book Reviews, April, 2014)

Pressure Ulcers in the Aging Population: A Guide for Clinicians is a resource primarily aimed at physicians interested in the fundamentals of wound care. This book is written for geriatricians, internists, general practitioners, residents and fellows who treat older patients. Unlike other wound texts on the market, the book addresses the specific issues of wound prevention and management in older individuals. The text emphasizes proper documentation and elements of the team care process. There is up to date information on skin changes at the end of life and the concept of unavailability. Chapters are written by experts in their fields and include such evolving topics as deep tissue injury and the newer support surface technologies.

It's a must read book, to any health professional, that deals with our Aging population, and the great challenge of dealing with this health problem, that affects the patient, the relatives and our society.
