Customer Reviews

This is designed to teach children colors... with ambiguous colors. The red is vaguely orange while the blue is purple. Either stupid, malicious, or some strange brew of stupidity and malice. Not, ideally, what I was going for in a Christmas present for my 2-year old.

The cards are very good quality but there are two colors that I was less than happy with. The blue, in my pack at least, looks more like purple and the purple looks more like a cross of pink and purple, more like a violet. This confused my daughter the first time we used the cards, so I told her they were both a purple color since she can not read that it says blue yet. Disappointed in the colors because it shows blue and purple on the cover but the cards in the pack do not look like that.

I bought these educational cards for my 1 year old, so we could start working on our words, numbers and colors. He absolutely loved them! We spent a lot of time looking at the cards and picking out our favorite ones.. He even liked them so much he started to eat the corners on a few of the cards! :)I look forward to buying more of these flash card sets as he gets older. Such a fun learning activity for him!

I purchased these for my 3 year old because she LOVES flash cards. She's a little young to count higher than 10 but she likes to learn so we have been working together and she loves it. She makes a huge mess and I find them everywhere long after I thought I had cleaned them all up haha.

Not impressed with the repetitive, duplicate, redundant, etc. cards. These are not good at all. Buy the School Zone Publishing cards and avoid the disappointment. It seems like the toddlers themselves designed these cards. Seriously buy both brands they're under $3 and you can decide for yourself.

I began using these with my son at about 12 months. He's now 17 months and still loves these cards. The pictures are bright and the size is perfect. Although the card stock used is sufficient, it would have been nice if it were a tad thicker so that it wouldn't be bent as easily. But that's not enough of an issue to reduce the amount of stars I'm giving these fun flash cards.

I love these! I have bought a few sets from this company and each set is just perfect! Great Colors, nice and thick, don't tear and keeps my 2 year old engaged. We just start at different levels and they are working out so well for my toddler.

These are not the originals. They have been copied and the color tells it all. For example, a card may read "ORANGE" but the orange looks brown. Don't waste your money
