PreSchool-Grade 1 "Sneaking into Josh's backpack, the curious spider in this long-running series experiences his first day at his Jewish school. He hears the story of Noah's Ark, learns about being kind to animals, and observes the children painting, building with blocks, and enjoying a snack. When the youngsters return to the classroom after playing outside, Sammy is discovered. Their first instinct is to step on him, but Josh reminds them about their obligation to be kind to all creatures. This book is a departure from the previous "Sammy" titles in that Josh Shapiro actually sees the spider in this one. The bright cut-paper illustrations help to depict a typical school day. A welcome addition where the earlier titles are popular." Rachel Kamin, North Suburban Synagogue Beth El, Highland Park, IL Copyright © Reed Business Information, a division of Reed Elsevier Inc. My sister in law is a Yoga instructor so I bought this book for her 5 year old twins. It is very colorful and easy to follow. There is a pose for each letter of the Hebrew Alphabet. Way cool!

Can't recommend this enough. Taught it this past year at my preschool to 15 3 year olds and they loved it. Great for cross curriculum working physical education with Jewish studies and literacy.

This is a lot of fun. It really engages the children. They always want to do their Alef Bais Yoga.

Although I love the poses, I have had this book for a little over a week and it has completely fallen apart!! I was hoping to buy it for my children's school, but feel like it will be a waste of money!

This book fell apart the same day we started using it; the pages just fell out! I was really looking forward to stretching with our little ones and never had a chance. Booooo!

Cute
