The Back Of The Book

Synopsis

Two things really stand out on this CD. One, it contains a great deal of quality original material, songs that will have you really listening to the lyrics. Too often, it seems gospel CDs have a tendency to be filled with songs that invite a capella arrangements, but otherwise are generally weak in the lyrics department. Not so with the compositions here, including the a capella offering of "Gloryland," a public domain tune performed by Whaley and Helton. That track is followed by a wonderful Easter Brothers song, "Thank You, Lord." The simple but effective version of the old Carter Family classic, "Workin' On A Building," is also difficult not to like. The other standout quality of "The Back of the Book" is the genuine, earthy vocals that Helton and Whaley contribute. Rest assured that if this group had been pegged to compete in the commercial country market, studio-hired vocal coaches would have ruined these two fine vocalists. In the bluegrass genre, honest and powerful voices like these are allowed to stand on their own, unpolished merits. May it always be so..

"I love this project. The Back of the Book should be at the front of your to buy list of Bluegrass Gospel. It's grassy gospel at it's greatest! The title track stopped me in my tracks and Barabbas literally made me weep - several times. Awesome performances and songs. You couldn't ask for MORE from Greenbrier!" Gracie Muldoon (Worldwide Bluegrass)
